We work hard to personalise the curriculum that we offer and stress the importance of providing a programme of study that is designed to meet the needs of individual students. Consequently, we have a system of curriculum pathways that are designed to reflect the differing needs and aptitudes of the children. Students will therefore be placed in the pathway most appropriate for them. They will be able to select four option choices to study, and two reserve choices in addition to some of the core subjects.

As you may be aware, the course content and level of challenge has increased with the introduction of the new GCSEs. As a school we must therefore respond to this to ensure that your child is well prepared for the more difficult examinations.

4. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

Question: How can I decide which subjects to choose? I don't know where to start!

Answer: Start by asking yourself these questions: Which subjects am I most interested in? Which ones am I best at? Are there any new subjects I'd like to take up?

Question: I know what kind of career I want. Which will be the best subjects to study for it?

Answer: Have a chat with our Careers Advisers. They can help you make the right subject choices. They will be able to give you independent and impartial Careers Advice and Guidance. The appointment can be arranged by emailing Ms P Sumray (psumray@oakspark.redbridge.sch.uk) .

Question: But what if I change my mind in a year or so about what career to do?

Answer: Well ... you might! A lot of people your age do. You can't be sure how you will change as a person over the next few years. You may find new things which interest you or develop new skills. And, you can't be sure how technology and the working world will change and exactly what job opportunities there will be when you are older and are going for a job. That's why it is a good idea not to specialise too early. A balanced choice of subjects is the best bet as it is likely to leave doors to lots of different careers open.

Question: My problem is that I've got no idea of what I want to do when I leave school. Does this matter?

Answer: No. It's a good idea to start thinking about what you may be interested in now but you don't have to make any definite plans. Go for subjects you are interested in and are good at. Try to keep your future choices open by choosing a range of subjects. Avoid too many similar subjects.

Question: I don't think that I'll start a job at the end of Year 11. I'll probably stay on in the sixth form and then go on to college or university. What options should I choose now?

Answer: Even if you think you know what you want to study at university, remember that colleges and universities expect you to have a good general education at Key Stage 4. If you follow your interests and abilities but keep a balance, you should be OK. If you're still worried, see your Head of Year.

Dos and Don'ts

- Do choose subjects that you are interested in, do well at and enjoy.
- Do choose a range of subjects so that you keep your choices open for the future.
- Don't choose a subject because your friends have. This is a very easy mistake to make. If you are hoping to be in the same group as them, you probably won't because most option subjects have more than one group. Anyway, we are all different so choose for yourself, not for someone else.
- Don't choose a subject because you like a particular teacher. You may not get the same teacher next year.
- Don't link all your option choices to a single career or interest. You might change your mind later on. You need your choices to be balanced so you are open to a variety of career opportunities.
- Don't panic! If you don't know what you want to do when you leave school. Most students in Year 8 have no idea and the ones that think they have can often end up doing something completely different. The important things are to follow the advice you have been given and then do as well as you can in all of your studies.
